Part 4
The Voyage Home

10. A Youthful Brain Is Empathic: Key 7 ......................................................... 199
11. A Youthful Brain Is Well Connected: Key 8 ........................................... 218
12. A Youthful Brain Is Authentic: Key 9 ...................................................... 238

Resources for Staying Sharp ........................................................................ 257
Acknowledgments ......................................................................................... 261
Notes .............................................................................................................. 265

You may grow old and trembling in your listening to the disorder of your veins. ... learn. That is the only thing which the never distrust, and never do

—T. H. WHITE, THE ON...

Living a long life, a full and joyful
the passing of time. It also requires always more to discover and more is always more to learn.

As for most of us, your own life
physical and mental changes—taller older. Barely glimpsed beneath the about what your future holds as you ise of youth.

Yet for many people, the second
est and most fulfilling phase of unfold and be discovered. It is the how to transform the second half
for you too.

In part 1 of Staying Sharp, we